Contributors

Filipe Antunes Madeira da Silva is a Doctoral candidate at SciencesPo Law School, Paris. He works on international law, history of international law and law and development, focusing on processes of natural resources extraction in the Latin American context.

Simon Archer is the Co-Director of the Centre for Comparative Research in Law and Political Economy at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University and practices law with Goldblatt Partners LLP in Toronto, Canada.

Catalina Avasilencei is a Lecturer at the French-Romanian Law College of European Studies (Sorbonne Law School – Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne) and an Associate Researcher at the Regional Francophone Centre for Advanced Research in Social Sciences (Cerefrea). She holds a PhD from the Sorbonne Law School and is a member of the Bucharest Bar.

Paul Schiff Berman is the Walter S. Cox Professor of Law at The George Washington University Law School. He is the author of over 50 scholarly works, including Global Legal Pluralism: A Jurisprudence of Law Beyond Borders, published in 2012 by Cambridge University Press.

George A. Bermann is a Professor of Law and the Director of the Center for International Commercial and Investment Arbitration, Columbia Law School, and professeur affilié, École de droit, SciencesPo, Paris.

Régis Bismuth is a Professor at SciencesPo Law School and Director of Studies of the French Branch of the International Law Association.

Lucia Bíziková holds a Masters degree from SciencesPo Law School (cum laude) and an LL.M. degree from the University of Cambridge, where she specialised in International Law. She is training to become a solicitor in an international law firm in London, UK.

Sylvain Bollée is a Professor of Law at the Sorbonne Law School (Paris 1 Panthéon-Sorbonne University). He is a specialist in international arbitration and transnational litigation, international business law and private international law.

Jacco Bomhoff is an Associate Professor of Law at the London School of Economics and Political Science (LSE).

Sandrine Brachotte is a PhD Researcher at SciencesPo Law School. She specialises in private international law, international arbitration, and human rights.
Global private international law

Agatha Brandão de Oliveira is a guest lecturer in Private International Law at Federal University of Espírito Santo and practices law as a member of the Brazilian bar.

Hannah Buxbaum is a Professor of Law and the John E. Schiller Chair at Indiana University Maurer School of Law. She specialises in international jurisdiction and international litigation.

Laura Carballo Piñeiro is a Professor and the Nippon Foundation Chair at the World Maritime University, Associate Professor of Private international law at the University of Santiago de Compostela (currently on leave) and Alexander von Humboldt Fellow. This chapter has benefited from the Spanish research project DER2016-80568-R, Xunta de Galicia and FEDER.

Christelle Chalas is a Lecturer at the University Paris 8 Vincennes-Saint Denis, qualified to supervise academic research (HDR). She specialises in private international law and issues related to international jurisdiction and family law.

Dagmar Coester-Waltjen LL.M. (University of Michigan), Dr. iur. (Christian-Albrechts-University Kiel) Dr. h.c. (University Zurich), Professor Emerita of the Georg-August-University Goettingen, founding director of the “Lichtenberg Kolleg” (an institute of advanced study of the University of Goettingen), from 1988–2008 Professor at the Institute for International Law of the Ludwig-Maximilian-University of Munich.

Giuditta Cordero-Moss PhD (Moscow), Dr.juris (Oslo), is a Professor at the University of Oslo, Norway. She specialises in private international law, international commercial law, arbitration and comparative contract law.

Sabine Corneloup is a Professor at Paris II Panthéon-Assas University and secretary general of the Revue critique de droit international privé. Her main areas of research are private international law and migration.

Fabio Costa Morosini is an Associate Professor at the Federal University of Rio Grande do Sul School of Law and a research fellow at the National Council of Scientific and Technological Development (CNPq, Ministry of Science and Technology, Brazil). Specialises in international economic law.

Gilles Cuniberti is a Professor of private international law and comparative law at the University of Luxembourg.

Jennifer Daskal is an Associate Professor of Law at American University Washington College of Law, where she teaches and writes in the fields of criminal, national security, and constitutional law. She was an Open Society Institute Fellow from 2016 to 2017, working on issues related to privacy, surveillance, and law enforcement access to data across borders. Daskal also spent two years as counsel to the Assistant Attorney General for National Security at the Department of Justice.
Contributors

Jean d’Aspremont is a Professor of International Law at SciencesPo Law School and University of Manchester.

Sara Dezalay is a Senior Lecturer in International Law and International Relations at the Cardiff School of Law and Politics and Senior Researcher at the Global Justice Lab, Munk School of Global Affairs, University of Toronto.

Richard Fentiman is a Professor of Private International Law at the University of Cambridge.

Diego P. Fernández Arroyo is a Professor at SciencesPo Law School and a member of the Curatorium of the Hague Academy of International Law.

Tomaso Ferrando is a Lecturer in Law at the University of Bristol Law School and member of the Global Legal Action Network legal committee. Holds a PhD from SciencesPo Law School. His research focuses on the interaction between law and the construction of the global food regime.

Samuel Fulli-Lemaire is a Senior Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative and International Private Law (Hamburg). He holds a PhD in Private International Law from Panthéon-Assas (Paris II) University.

Uglješa Grušić is an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Laws of University College London where he teaches private international law, international arbitration and the law of tort.

Hisashi Harata is a Professor, Faculty of Law and Political Science, The University of Tokyo. His main fields of research include Private International Law, Legal History, International Arbitration, and International Corporate Law.

Ludovic Hennebel is a Professor at Aix-en-Provence Law School, director of the Institute of International Humanitarian Studies and of Aix Global Justice Legal Clinic, and a member of the CERIC (Aix-Marseille University) and of the Center Perelman of Legal Philosophy.

Jeremy Heymann is a tenured (full) Professor of Private International Law and International Trade Law at the University of Lyon (Lumièere).

Vitor Henrique Pinto Ido is a PhD Candidate in Law, University of São Paulo and Researcher at Fundação Getúlio Vargas – FGV/SP.

Patrick Kinsch practises law as a member of the Luxembourg bar. He also teaches private international law as a professor at the University of Luxembourg.

Hayk Kupelyants is the Clifford Chance Lecturer in the Conflict of Laws at the University of Cambridge and a fellow of Homerton College.
Katja Langenbucher holds a full professorship for Private Law, Corporate and Financial Law in Goethe-University’s House of Finance and is an affiliated professor at SciencesPo, Paris.

Franck Latty is a Professor at Paris Nanterre University and Director of Nanterre Center of International Law (CEDIN). He is also the Secretary General of the French Branch of the International Law Association (ILA) and author of numerous writings on public international law, investment arbitration and international sports law.

Oona Le Meur is a PhD candidate at the SciencesPo Law School. Her research focuses on customary law in New-Caledonia as a way to question more generally speaking the identity-making and nation-building processes.

Gregory Lewkowicz is a Professor at Université Libre de Bruxelles and Visiting Professor at the Goethe University of Frankfurt and SciencesPo, Paris. He is the A. Koyré Chair in Business Law & Artificial Intelligence at the Université of Nice Sophia Antipolis. He is director of research on ‘Global Law’ at the Perelman Centre for Legal Philosophy and President of the European Incubator of the Brussels Bar Association.

François-Xavier Licari is an Associate Professor at the University of Lorraine, France. As a scholar working for many years in the field of comparative law, he is focusing his research on legal hybridity. More recently, he has developed a strong interest for Jewish law and religious legal theory.

Fabien Marchadier is a Professor at the University of Poitiers. His fields of research are Private International Law, European Human Rights law and Animal Law.

Toni Marzal is a Lecturer at the University of Glasgow School of Law. He specialises in EU law, private international law and comparative law.

Ralf Michaels is the Arthur Larson Professor of Law at Duke University. His research focuses especially on methodological questions of private international law and comparative law, as well as the theory of law under conditions of globalisation.

Alex Mills is a Professor of Public and Private International Law at the Faculty of Laws, University College London (UCL).

Horatia Muir Watt is a Professor at SciencesPo Law School, Paris.

Nathalie Najjar Ph.D, Attorney at law, Managing Partner at Ibrahim Najjar law firm, Lecturer at the Faculty of law of Saint Joseph University (Beirut) and at the University Paris II, Panthéon-Assas, Chairman ICC-Lebanon, Arbitration Commission.
Contributors

Etienne Pataut is a Professor of private law at the Sorbonne Law School (University Paris 1). He is a specialist in Private International Law and European Law and takes particular interest in the social aspects of globalisation, on which he has extensively written.

David Restrepo Amariles is an Assistant Professor of International Arbitration and Jurisprudence at HEC Paris. He is the Director of research on ‘legal metrics and Smart Law’ at HEC Paris and an Associate Researcher at the Perelman Centre for Legal Philosophy (ULB).

Darren Rosenblum is a Professor of law at Pace University. His research examines the effect of gender equality on corporate governance in transnational contexts.

Calixto Salomão Filho is a Professor of Law at the University of São Paulo Law School and a Professor at SciencesPo Law School, Paris.

Michelle Sanchez Badin is a Professor at Getúlio Vargas Foundation São Paulo School of Law, Brazil. Her research and teaching are mainly in the field of International Economic Law.

Jérôme Sgard is a Professor of Political Economy at SciencesPo. His research deals primarily with the construction and regulation of markets, as seen through the prism of agents, micro-level rules and dispute resolution: sovereign debt restructuring, private bankruptcies, international commercial arbitration, litigation in the nineteenth century French commercial courts.

David Sindres is an Agrégé des Facultés de Droit, Professor of Private Law at the University of Angers and lecturer at SciencesPo Law School. He specialises in Private International Law and International Trade Law.

Elsa Supiot is a Lecturer of private law at University Paris I Panthéon-Sorbonne. She is also a Member of the Norms, Sciences and Techniques Centre of the Institut of the Legal and Philosophic Sciences (Centre Normes, Sciences et Techniques de l’Institut des Sciences Juridique et Philosophique).

Chris Thomale holds a PhD from Free University Berlin and an LL.M. from Yale Law School. As an Associate Professor at the University of Heidelberg, he specialises in private international, comparative and corporate law.

Kellen Trilha is a Research fellow and has been a contract lecturer in International Law at the Bocconi University, Milan, since 2015. She holds a Ph.D. from the SciencesPo Law School, Paris.

Hans van Loon is an independent consultant. He was the Secretary General of the Hague Conference on Private International Law from 1996–2013.
Global private international law

Jinske Verhellen is a Professor of law at Ghent University, lecturing private international law and international family law. She has published on various aspects of private international law, migration and nationality law.

Mark Weidemaier is the Ralph M. Stockton, Jr. Distinguished Professor of Law at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. His areas of specialisation involve the intersection between contracts and dispute resolution in domestic and international settings, as well as issues related to the structure and enforcement of government debt.

Michael Wells-Greco is an Assistant Professor, Maastricht University and a Solicitor of the Senior Courts of England and Wales.