
Contents

List of contributors	viii
Acknowledgments	xi
1 Introduction: U.S. environmental policy research in uncertain times David M. Konisky	1
PART I POLITICAL INSTITUTIONS
2 Power, partisanship, and contingency: the president and U.S. environmental policy Christopher McGrory Klyza	11
3 How the study of Congress and the environment can help us understand vexing problems of representation Sarah E. Anderson (with Meghan Cook)	25
4 The Environmental Protection Agency: policy and administration in a turbulent setting Brian J. Cook	39
5 U.S. natural resource agencies, management and policies Edward P. Weber	53
6 American courts and U.S. environmental policy Andrew Osorio and Rosemary O'Leary	67
7 Federalism and the states Neal D. Woods	79
8 Local environmental policy in the United States Sara Hughes	93
PART II POLITICS AND BEHAVIOR
9 Issue framing and agenda setting Sarah Pralle	108
10 Elections and parties in environmental politics Parrish Bergquist and Christopher Warshaw	126
11 Interest groups in environmental policy: navigating rocky political terrain Melissa K. Merry	142

12	Public opinion and the environment: an evolving literature James W. Stoutenborough	156
13	Promises and challenges of citizen engagement in risk and environmental decision making Seth Tuler and Thomas Webler	170
PART III POLICY TOOLS AND STRATEGIES
14	The contested politics of environmental rulemaking Colin Provost and Brian J. Gerber	187
15	Pricing pollution through market-based instruments Joseph E. Aldy	202
16	Regulating by performance, not prescription: the use of performance standards in environmental policy Daniel J. Fiorino and Manjyot Ahluwalia	217
17	Information provision Jay P. Shimshack	231
18	Calling all volunteers: industry self-regulation on the environment Lily Hsueh	243
19	Collaborative governance: from simple partnerships to complex systems Meghan Klasic and Mark Lubell	257
PART IV CLIMATE CHANGE
20	The dynamics of federal climate policy conflict Matto Mildemberger	275
21	States of crisis: subnational inaction on climate change in the United States Leah C. Stokes and Hanna L. Breetz	289
22	To engage, or not to engage? U.S. foreign policy on climate and clean energy Jonas Meckling and Thijs Van de Graaf	302
23	Advocacy, social movements, and climate change Andrew Cheon	315
24	Denialism: organized opposition to climate change action in the United States Robert J. Brulle	328
25	Communication for a sustainable climate Connie Roser-Renouf, Edward Maibach, and Anthony Leiserowitz	342
26	The unexplored politics of climate change adaptation Debra Javeline and Sophia N. Chau	357

27	Geoengineering: imperfect yet perhaps important options for addressing climate change Albert Lin	373
PART V IDEAS AND CHALLENGES
28	Political theory and environmental ethics Peter F. Cannavò	390
29	Deliberative democracy and the environment: flipping the script to think locally and act globally? Walter F. Baber	405
30	Environmental justice Kerry Ard and Matthew Dowiatt	420
31	A just U.S. energy transition Sanya Carley and Michelle Graff	434
32	Letting the fox guard the hen house? Corporate social responsibility and environmental governance Daniel C. Matisoff	448
33	Sustainability and public policy Kent E. Portney	463
	Index	477