Contributors

EDITORS

Pier Luigi Parcu is Professor at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies (RSCAS) of the European University Institute (EUI) in Florence, where he directs a number of projects: the European Networking and Training for European Competition Law Enforcers (ENTraNCE Judges), the Florence Competition Programme, the Communications and Media Area of the Florence School of Regulation and the Centre for Media Pluralism and Media Freedom. He is also Chairman of Studio Economico, a consultancy firm specializing in antitrust and regulatory issues of network industries. From 2000 to 2003, he was CEO of the Independent System Operator running the Italian electricity grid. From 1991 to 2000 he was the Director of Investigations at the Italian Competition Authority (AGCM), in charge of several regulated sectors. Previously, he served as Chief Economist at the Italian Security and Exchange Commission and as Economist at the International Monetary Fund (IMF). He holds a PhD in Economics from the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA). His research in the area of industrial organization and law and economics focuses on the interaction between regulation and antitrust in shaping firms’ behavior in network industries.

Giorgio Monti is Professor at the Law Faculty of the University of Tilburg (the Netherlands), as well as Part Time Professor at the RSCAS. He previously acted as Full Time Professor and Head of the Law Department of the EUI (2010–19). In addition, he is Scientific Coordinator of ENTraNCE for Judges. Before joining the EUI, Prof. Monti taught law at the University of Leicester (1993–2001) and at the London School of Economics (2001–10).

Marco Botta is Research Fellow at the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies of the European University Institute. In addition, he is Affiliated Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition in Munich (Germany) and lecturer at the Law Faculty of the University of Vienna. Marco Botta holds a Bachelor Degree in International Relations from the University of Turin (Italy), an LLM in European Business Law from Leiden University (the Netherlands) and a PhD from EUI Law Department.
CONTRIBUTORS

Marco Boccaccio is Full Professor of Public Finance at the Department of Economics of the University of Perugia (Italy). In addition, he has been Visiting Fellow at the Yale School of Law, assistant to Professor Franco Romani at the Italian Competition Authority and Member of the Academic Advisory Group for Mergers at DG Competition of the European Commission. He has published extensively in the areas of competition, regulation and public finance.

Ginevra Bruzzone is an economist specializing in competition law. Currently, she is Deputy Director General of Assonime, a private think tank active in corporate law, tax law, competition law and regulatory policies, based in Rome (Italy). At Assonime, which she joined in December 2000, she is in charge of EU and Italian competition law, consumer protection, IP law and regulation. Furthermore, Ginevra teaches internal market, competition and intellectual property law at the Master on European Economic Governance of the School of European Political Economy (SEP), LUISS University, Rome. She has published extensively in the field of law and economics. She is a member of the Advisory Board of the Italian Transport Regulation Authority, of the Advisory Committee of the 4iP Council and of the Steering Council of the Italian Section of the ICC (International Chamber of Commerce).

Filippo Caliento has worked at the Brussels office of BonelliErede LLP since 2015. He holds a law degree with honours from La Sapienza (Rome), an LLM from the Humboldt-Universitaet zu Berlin and an LLM from King’s College London. His practice focuses on EU law, competition law and State aid law.

Simone Donzelli, LLM, joined the State aid enforcement and monitoring unit of DG Competition in the European Commission in 2014. In this position, he controls the implementation of State aid decisions by several Member States across all sectors and contributes to cooperation with national courts. He also handles infringement proceedings and assists other units of DG Competition in the course of their investigations. Before joining the European Commission Simone worked in the competition departments of a number of international law firms in Brussels.

Alberto Heimler is Professor of Economics at the National School of Administration in Rome (Italy). He is the Chairman of the Working Party on Competition and Regulation of the Competition Committee of the Organization of Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). He is the former director for research at the Italian Antitrust Authority. He has been a member of the Steering Group of the International Competition Network (ICN) and cochair of a number of ICN working groups. His academic articles on antitrust enforcement and regulation have appeared in the leading journals of the field.

Massimo Merola is Professor of State Aid Law at the College of Europe in Bruges (Belgium), where he also directs the Global Competition Law Centre. Moreover, he is Managing Partner of BonelliErede’s Brussels office, and the scientific director of the firm’s EU practice. Massimo holds a law degree with honours from La Sapienza (Rome) and an LLM with high distinction from the College of Bruges. He has a very broad EU law practice, with a specific focus on State aid litigation before EU courts in the areas of competition law, customs law, State-owned undertakings and public procurement. He is recognized by Chambers as one of only two ‘star individuals’ for State aid matters. He is also a leading figure in respect of litigation in Luxembourg, with court appearances over the course of more than 30 years.

Fernando Pastor-Merchante is Assistant Professor of Law at IE University (Madrid, Spain) and Scientific Coordinator of the Research Centre on Administrative Justice at the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid. His research interests lie in the area of EU administrative law, with a special interest in State aid governance. He is the author of The Role of Competitors in the Enforcement of State Aid Law (Oxford: Hart, 2017) and of various papers on this subject. He holds a dual degree in law and political science from the Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, a Master in Laws (LLM) from Columbia University School of Law and a PhD in Law from the European University Institute.

Juan Jorge Piernas López obtained his PhD in Law from the European University Institute in Florence (2013). He had previously graduated from Harvard University (LLM, Harvard Law School 2007), the College of Europe (Master in Advanced European Studies, Natolin, Poland 2009) and the University of Murcia (Law degree, Spain, 2003). Juan Jorge is currently Assistant Professor (tenure track) of European Union and International Law at the University of Murcia (Spain) and a consultant to the World Bank on State aid matters and competition policy. He previously worked for the international law firm Cleary Gottlieb Steen & Hamilton, focusing on European Union and Spanish Competition, Trade, and State Aid Law (Brussels, 2007–9), and for the European Commission (trainee at the Legal Service in 2005 and temporal agent at DG Competition in 2006). Juan Jorge Piernas López has published extensively on international and European Union law. His doctoral thesis was published by Oxford University Press in 2015 under the title The Concept of State Aid under EU Law: From Internal Market to Competition and Beyond. He has also taught at postgraduate level at ICADE (international trade and EU law), ISDE (internal market law), IEB (EU State aid and competition law) and IE Law School (EU State aid law).

Maria Alessandra Rossi is Associate Professor in the Department of Economics at the University G. D’Annunzio of Chieti-Pescara (Italy). Previously, she worked as Associate Professor at the University of Siena (Italy). In addition, she has been visiting researcher at the University of Oxford, the Council of Europe, the Department of Economics at UC Berkeley, the Santa Fe Institute of Technology and University of Paris X. She carried out research and reports for OECD, the Italian Telecommunications National Regulatory Authority (AGCOM), the Italian Ministry of Finance and the Independent Regulatory Group (IRG). She has published several articles in national and international journals, such as the Cambridge Journal of Economics, Telecommunications Policy, Economics of Innovation and New Technologies, Communications & Strategies and European Journal of Law and Economics. Maria Alessandra holds a PhD in Law & Economics from the University of Siena.

Adam Scott has academic and professional roots in engineering, economics law and theology. His doctoral research was in an area where economic regulation intersects with psychology and social science. After being called to the Bar, his specialization in intellectual property and competition law brought him into electronic communications as a lawyer in ITT and the British Post Office. After being a corporate planner in the creation and privatization of British Telecommunications PLC, and then taking other senior roles in BT, in 1994 he became a fellow at the University of St Andrews, while being a consultant in scenarios and economic regulation; he retired from the university in 2012. In 2000, he was a founding judicial member of the UK Competition Commission Appeal Tribunals and then of the current Competition Appeal Tribunal (CAT). Having completed his term as a judge, he is serving as the CAT’s Director of Studies, organizing training and international affairs and supporting the Association of European Competition Law Judges and relations between national judges and the European Commission. He has also been an Anglican minister throughout his legal career and he is now serving as an officiating chaplain to the National Reserve Headquarters Royal Artillery. He is a fellow of the UK Institution of Engineering and Technology.

Josef Weinzierl, M.Jur (Oxon), is a trainee judge at the District Court of Regensburg, Germany (LG Regensburg), where he is currently preparing to sit the Second State Examination. He graduated from the University of Passau in 2015 (First State Examination), where he specialized in EU law. In 2016 he was awarded a Magister Juris with Distinction from the University of Oxford and gained some work experience as a research assistant in the competition law department of two international law firms and in the cabinet of Advocate General Juliane Kokott, at the Court of Justice of the European Union in Luxembourg. From an academic perspective he is interested in EU law as a whole and, more specifically, in the nature of the European legal order and its relationship with the legal orders of its Member States.

Bernadette Willemot-Nieuwenhuys studied international law and comparative politics at the Universities of Namur, Gent and UCL in Belgium. After three years of research in European administrative law at the Institut d'Etudes Europeennes of the UCL in Belgium, combined with a one year traineeship in a Brussels law firm, she joined DG Competition in 2001, where she dealt with State aid to manufacturing industries. In 2003, she was among the first officials setting up the ‘recovery unit’ which was a new priority of the Commissioner for Competition. In 2007 she joined the competition unit of DG Agriculture and Rural Development, where she was Deputy Head of Unit from 2009 until 2014. In 2014, she came back to the enforcement and monitoring of DG Competition, where she deals mainly with French, Belgian and Italian cases.