

Contributors

Ana Alecsandru is a PhD candidate in the School of Government at the University of Birmingham, UK.

Fiona Archontoulis is a PhD candidate in the Department of Employment Relations and Human Resources at Griffith University.

Carol Atkinson is Professor of Human Resource Management at Manchester Metropolitan University, UK.

Jamie Callahan is Professor of Leadership and Human Resource Development at the Newcastle Business School, University of Northumbria, UK.

Andrea Casey is Associate Professor of Human and Organizational Learning, Graduate School of Education and Human Development, The George Washington University, Washington, DC, USA.

Rosanna Cole is a Senior Lecturer in Sustainable Supply Chain Management at Surrey Business School, University of Surrey, UK.

Oliver S. Crocco is an Assistant Professor of Leadership and Human Resource Development at Louisiana State University (LSU), USA. His research interests are in human resource development in Southeast Asia, evaluation, adult development, and enhancing global mindset in university and work contexts.

Maria Cseh is an Associate Professor in Human and Organizational Learning (HOL) and Director of the HOL Doctoral Program at The George Washington University, Washington, DC, USA.

Zeineb Djebali is a teaching fellow in Entrepreneurship and Management at the Surrey Business School, University of Surrey, UK.

Graeme Dobson is a Lecturer on the Language Literacies and Dyslexia programme and on the Special Educational Needs Coordination (SENCO) programme in the Department of Disability, Inclusion and Special Needs, University of Birmingham, UK.

Jimmy Donaghey is Professor of Human Resource Management in the Centre for Workplace Excellence, University of South Australia.

Dawn C. Duke is Head of Researcher Development and Engagement in the Doctoral College at the University of Surrey, UK. She leads the team that supports transferable and employability skills, as well as career development for doctoral researchers.

Ursula Furnier gained her doctorate in business management (with a focus on marketing) from the University of Surrey, UK. Her research interests are research methods, service failure/recovery, customer experience and customer satisfaction.

Victor Oyaro Gekara is an Associate Professor at the School of Business IT and Logistics, RMIT University, Australia.

Tara Gray serves as the first director of the Teaching Academy at New Mexico State University (NMSU), USA.

Tomika W. Greer is an Assistant Professor of Human Resource Development (HRD) at the University of Houston, USA. Her research interests include career readiness, transitions, and development for women and disadvantaged populations; implementation and outcomes of “family-friendly” organizational policies and programs; and curriculum, pedagogy, and outcomes of academic programs in HRD.

Anette Hallin is Associate Professor and Senior Lecturer in Business Studies at the Stockholm University School of Business, Sweden.

Brian Harney is Associate Professor in Strategic Human Resource Management at Dublin City University Business School, Deputy Director (SMEs) of the LInK Research Institute, and Programme Director of the MSc in HRM (gradIreland Best Postgraduate Business Course, 2016).

Grace Henry is a college administrator and adjunct faculty member at The George Washington University in Washington, DC, USA. Her research focuses on institutional diversity and inclusion, and promoting access and success in higher education.

Colin Hughes is Head of Accreditation at the College of Business, Technological University Dublin. His main research interests are leadership and trust.

Amy N.B. Johnston is Conjoint Senior Lecturer, School of Nursing, Midwifery and Social Work, University of Queensland, and Department of Emergency Medicine, Princess Alexandra Hospital, Brisbane, Australia.

Peter J. Jordan, PhD, is a Professor of organizational behavior at the Department of Employment Relations and Human Resources, Griffith Business School, Australia.

Merrel Knox is a graduate tutor at Northumbria University, UK. Her research is about leadership in teams working in dangerous contexts.

Sharon F. Lambert is a Professor in the Department of Psychology at The George Washington University, Washington, DC, USA. Her research focuses on neighborhood and race-related stressors experienced by ethnic minority youth and families, in order to inform school and community-based preventive interventions.

Amanda Lee is Senior Lecturer in Human Resource Management at the University of Derby, UK.

Qian Yi Lee recently completed her PhD in the Department of Employment Relations and Human Resources at Griffith University, Australia.

Ana Lobo is employed as a learning adviser, Academic Engagement Services, Griffith University, Australia.

Raymond Markey is Emeritus Professor in Employment Relations at Macquarie University, Australia.

Natasha S. Mauthner is Professor of Social Science Philosophy and Method, and Director of Research, at the Business School, Newcastle University, UK.

Emily McDonald is a PhD candidate in Public Sociology at George Mason University, Virginia. Her research is focused on civic engagement and the philanthropic and nonprofit sector in the U.S.

Linzi McKerr is Senior Lecturer in the School of Education at the University of Worcester, UK.

Dennis Nickson is Professor in Service Work and Employment at the University of Strathclyde, UK.

Kim Nimon is an Associate Professor in Human Resource Development at the University of Texas at Tyler, USA. Her research interests include employee engagement and quantitative methods.

Emma Partlow is a postgraduate research student in the Department of Social Policy, Sociology and Criminology at the University of Birmingham, UK. Her current research focuses on the impact of equalities legislation and legal frameworks in the workplace upon the lives of disabled people.

Nora Pillard Reynolds is a fellow for Ethical Global Learning at Haverford College, USA, and is Editor of globalsl, a multi-institutional hub supporting ethical global learning and community campus partnerships.

Holly Prescott is Careers Adviser for Postgraduate Researchers at the University of Birmingham, UK. She leads on delivering training and guidance to support research students take their next steps after their doctorates.

Safa Riaz is in the Department of International Business and Asian Studies at Griffith University, Australia.

Adam Robertson is a PhD candidate in the Department of Management at Monash University, Australia.

Jennifer (Jenny) Robinson is a doctoral researcher at Henley Business School, University of Reading, UK.

Katherine Rosenbusch is an Assistant Professor of Management at the School of Business at George Mason University, USA. Her research interests include international human resource development, global leadership and international organizational development.

Gerard Ryan is Professor of Consumer Behaviour at Universitat Rovira i Virgili (URV), Catalonia, Spain, with over twenty years' experience in teaching, research and management in university education.

Jemma J. Saunders is a part-time doctoral researcher at the University of Birmingham, UK. Her research focuses on screen representations of Birmingham, looking at the city as both filming location and narrative setting.

Melika Shirmohammadi is an Assistant Professor of Human Resource Development in the Department of Organizational Learning and Performance at Idaho State University, USA.

Mai Khanh Tran is a PhD student in the Department of Marketing at the University of Birmingham, UK.

Aurora Trif is a Lecturer in International HRM and Employment Relations at Dublin City University Business School.

Mireia Valverde is Professor in the Department of Business Management at Universitat Rovira i Virgili (URV), Catalonia, Spain. She researches in human resource management and is a member of the URV's group of trainers for PhD researchers and supervisors professionalisation.

Polly Watson Black is an assistant teaching professor in the Department of Communication at Wake Forest University, North Carolina, USA.

Vicki Webster is Program Facilitator and Adjunct Senior Lecturer at Griffith Business School, Australia.

Rebecca Whiting is a Senior Lecturer in Organizational Psychology at Birkbeck, University of London, UK. Her research focuses on socially constructed notions of diversity, the role of digital technologies in managing work-life boundaries and ethical responsibilities in relation to research and business.

Chris F. Wright is a Senior Lecturer in the Discipline of Work and Organisational Studies, University of Sydney, Australia. His research covers various issues relating to the intersection of employment, globalisation and public policy, with a particular focus on labour immigration, sustainable supply chains and comparative regulatory systems.