

Contributors

Christoph Ann holds the Chair for Intellectual Property at the School of Management Technical University of Munich. He has law degrees from Germany and the U.S. (LL.M., Duke '88). From 2001–2003, he also served as a judge on the Mannheim Regional Court's renowned IP Infringement Panel with jurisdiction over the technologically eminent German state of Baden-Württemberg.

Margo A. Bagley is Asa Griggs Candler Professor of Law, Emory University School of Law, USA. Her scholarship focuses on comparative issues relating to patents and biotechnology, pharmaceuticals and access to medicines, and technology transfer. She is an expert technical advisor to the African Union in several WIPO matters and is the Lead Facilitator and Friend of the Chair in the WIPO Intergovernmental Committee on Intellectual Property, Genetic Resources, Traditional Knowledge, and Folklore.

Maria Letizia Bixio obtained a PhD in Copyright Law from University 'Parthenope' of Naples; she is now Postdoctoral Researcher at the European University of Rome and contributor for the chair of Commercial Law. She is lecturer of Cultural Heritage Rights at the European University of Rome. She is a Member of CREDA – Innovation & Copyright Excellence Research Centre, ALAI, ATRIP.

Marsha S. Cadogan is a Post-doctoral Intellectual Property Law Fellow with the Centre for International Governance Innovation. Her research includes geographical indications in global consumer markets, trade mark law and policy, intellectual property, trade and development, and the intersections between emerging technologies and intellectual property.

Susy Frankel is a Professor of Law and the Chair in Intellectual Property and International Trade and Director of the New Zealand Centre of International Economic Law, at Victoria University of Wellington. In 2018 she was elected Fellow of the Royal Society of New Zealand.

Jill Klein is a Professor of Marketing at the Melbourne Business School and Professorial Fellow at the Melbourne Medical School. Jill is a distinguished consumer researcher whose work has been published in the Journal of Marketing, Management Science, Journal of Consumer Psychology, British Medical Journal, and more. A particular focus of her research is on decision making biases and how they affect decisions in both business and medical settings.

Jessica C. Lai is a Senior Lecturer of Commercial Law at Victoria University of Wellington, New Zealand. She researches in patent law and the protection of traditional knowledge. She has published numerous articles, chapters, books and edited books in these fields, and is the author of 'Indigenous Cultural Heritage and Intellectual Property Rights' (Springer 2014) and co-author of 'Patent Law and Policy' (with Susy Frankel, LexisNexis 2016).

Valentina Moscon is a Senior Research Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Innovation and Competition in Munich, Germany. Her research focuses on European and comparative copyright law and information law.

Ana Nordberg is Associate Senior Lecturer at the Faculty of Law, Lund University, Sweden. A former practising lawyer, technology adept and a cross-disciplinary enthusiast, Dr. Nordberg is responsible for IP law courses and researches the legal implications of emerging technology from a broad contextual perspective.

Enyinna Nwauche is a Professor and Head of Department of Private Law at the Nelson Mandela School of Law, University of Fort Hare South Africa where he teaches intellectual property law. He is a member of the African Union Committee on a Model Law on Heritage and Cultural Property. He has also served as Director General of the Nigerian Copyright Commission.

Zaneta Pacud is Assistant Professor in the Institute of Law Studies at the Polish Academy of Sciences, Warsaw, Poland. She specialises in industrial property and life science. Currently she conducts her research on regulatory data protection and biotechnological inventions.

Megan Richardson is a Professor of Law, Director of the Intellectual Property Research Institute of Australia and Co-Director of the Centre for Media and Communications Law at the Melbourne Law School, University of Melbourne. She works across privacy, personality and intellectual property law. Books include 'Fashioning Intellectual Property: Exhibition, Advertising and the Press, 1789–1918' (CUP, 2012), with Julian Thomas, and 'The Right to Privacy: Origins and Influence of a Nineteenth-Century Idea' (CUP, 2017).

Julian Thomas is Director of the Social Change research platform at RMIT University. He works on information law and policy and the histories of new communications technologies. With Megan Richardson, he has published 'Fashioning Intellectual Property: Exhibition, Advertising and the Press, 1789–1918' (CUP, 2012). Books include 'Internet on the Outstation: The Digital Divide and Remote Aboriginal Communities' (INC, 2016) and 'The Informal Media Economy' (Polity, 2015).

Anna Tischner (dr hab.) is an Associate Professor at the Intellectual Property Law Chair of the Jagiellonian University in Krakow, Poland. Anna's main field is industrial property and unfair competition law, and in particular European design law. Her publications include two monographs (in Polish): 'Civil liability for trade mark infringement' (WoltersKluwer 2008) and 'Cumulative protection of designs in the intellectual property law' (C.H. Beck 2015).

Knud Wallberg is a Post-doctoral Researcher at the University of Copenhagen where he teaches in IT law. He is member of the Legal Expert Group established by the EUIPO and holds positions as UDRP panelist with WIPO and expert member of the .dk Dispute Board for Domain names.

Genevieve Wilkinson is a Lecturer in the Faculty of Law at the University of Technology Sydney researching in the fields of intellectual property and human rights. Genevieve holds a PhD from the University of Technology Sydney.

Chongnang Wiputhanupong has a PhD from the University of Nottingham and is a lecturer at the School of Law, Sripatum University, Thailand. Her research focuses on copyright, media and communication. The National Research Council of Thailand is funding her project on the development of originality and creativity in Thailand's copyright system.

Helen Yu is an Assistant Professor and Associate Director of the Centre for Advanced Studies in Biomedical Innovation Law (CeBIL) at the University of Copenhagen, Faculty of Law. Her research focuses on how intellectual property and policy tools can be leveraged to support the responsible transformation of basic research into socially and economically beneficial outcomes. Helen holds a degree in neuroscience and practiced as an intellectual property lawyer and registered patent agent in Canada before obtaining her PhD at the University of Copenhagen.