Preface

This volume represents one of the outcomes of the European Networking and Training for National Competition Enforcers (ENTraNCE) project. The project is organized by the Robert Schuman Centre for Advanced Studies of the European University Institute in Florence (Italy). ENTraNCE organizes training, research and policy debates in the field of competition law and economics. Over 300 national judges from 24 EU Member States have attended this training programme since 2011. The programme includes both residential training in Florence and online activities. Each year, the training focuses on a different aspect of competition law enforcement that is relevant to the national judiciary. The training is co-financed by the Directorate General of Competition of the European Commission.

ENTraNCE 2018 focused on the role of economics in EU competition policy. This volume includes contributions from the speakers who participated in the events organized in the context of ENTraNCE 2018. In addition, the three editors of the book have been actively involved in the organization of ENTraNCE since its first edition: Professor Parcu is the director of the programme; Professor Monti acts as scientific coordinator; and Professor Botta is the project coordinator.
