Contributors

Carlo Altomonte is Assistant Professor of Economics of European Integration (Jean Monnet Chair) at Bocconi University, Milan and Associate Senior Research Fellow at ISPI. He has held visiting posts in programmes on Economics of European Integration, among others, at NYU and Keio University (Tokyo). He has published extensively in top journals in the field of international and industrial economics.

Franco Bruni is Professor of Economics at Bocconi University and Vice President of Milan’s Istituto per gli Studi di Politica Internazionale (ISPI). He is past-President and member of the Council of Management of the Société Universitaire Européenne de Recherches Financières (SUERF) and member of the European Shadow Financial Regulatory Committee. He is author of many publications on monetary economics and financial regulation.

Karel Lannoo is Chief Executive of the Centre for European Policy Studies (CEPS) and Independent Director of BME (Bolsas y Mercados Españoles), the company which runs the Madrid stock exchange. He has published some books and numerous articles in specialised magazines and journals on EU, financial regulation and corporate governance matters. He has spoken at several European Parliament, Commission and related institutions hearings and participated in studies for national and international bodies (EU institutions, OECD, ADB, World Bank). He is a regular speaker at international conferences and in executive training programmes.

Hans Martens is the Chief Executive of the European Policy Centre, responsible for the overall management of the EPC and its human and financial resources, liaison with members and representing the EPC at events and meetings across Europe. He also contributes research and analysis in the economic and social area. His career includes experience in leading an economic, research and training consultancy business and working in banking as a Chief Economist and Head of international private banking.
Jacques Mistral is a Professor of Economics, Head of Economic Research at the Institut Français des Relations Internationales (IFRI); he served as Financial Counselor to the Embassy of France in the United States of America from 2001 to 2006. He recently published two books on the American economy, a report on reforming financial accounting and numerous articles on recent global and financial issues.

Francesco Passarelli is Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Teramo and at Bocconi University, Milan. Recently, he has published several studies on voting, collective choice and political economics, with special reference to the EU.

Daniela Schwarzer is Head of the EU integration division of the German Institute for International and Security Affairs (SWP). She is co-founder and co-editor of the European Political Economy Review and of www.eurozonewatch.eu. Previously, she worked for the Financial Times Deutschland.

Carlo Secchi is Professor of European Economic Policy at Bocconi University in Milan, where he is Director of ISLA (Institute for Latin American Studies and Transition Economies). He is chairman of the Italian Group of the Trilateral Commission and Vice President of ISPI. He has been a consultant of the Italian Government, the European Union and various research institutions worldwide. He has extensively published articles and books on international trade, economic integration and European economic policy.

Antonio Villafranca is Senior Research Fellow and Head of the European Programme at ISPI. He is lecturer of International Relations at the Bocconi University in Milan. He has published several articles and edited volumes on European governance and EU policies.

Fabian Zuleeg is Senior Policy Analyst at the European Policy Centre (EPC). He is an economist by training and at the EPC he is responsible for the political economy programme, which covers topics such as future European competitiveness, social Europe, climate change and better policy making and economic governance.