Contributors

Jean-Louis Beffa is Chairman of the Board of Directors of Compagnie de Saint-Gobain and Co-President of the Cournot Centre for Economic Studies.

Margaret Blair is Professor of Law at Vanderbilt University Law School in Nashville, Tennessee. Her latest research focuses on team production and the legal structure of business organizations, legal issues in the governance of supply chains, and the role of private sector governance arrangements in contract enforcement.

Wendy Carlin is Professor of Economics at University College London and a Research Fellow at the Centre for Economic Policy Research (CEPR). Her research focuses on transition economies, macroeconomics and institutions.

Christophe Clerc is a Partner at Marcus Partners in Paris, France. He practises corporate and securities law for major international groups, with a focus on cross-border mergers and acquisitions, capital markets and corporate governance issues. He also teaches corporate governance at the Institut d’Études Politiques de Paris.

Simon Deakin is Professor of Law at the University of Cambridge, a Programme Director at the Cambridge Centre for Business Research (CBR) and an Associate Faculty Member of the Judge Business School. His research focuses on labour law, private law, company law, law and economics and EU law.

Jean-Paul Fitoussi is Professor of Economics at the Institut d’Études Politiques de Paris and President of the Scientific Council and of the Observatoire Français des Conjonctures Économiques (OFCE, the economic research centre of the Institut d’Études Politiques). He is General Secretary of the International Economic Association and serves as an expert at the European Parliament, Commission of Monetary and Economic Affairs. His main research interests include theories of inflation, unemployment, foreign trade and the role of macroeconomic policies.
Contributors

Donatella Gatti is Professor of Economics at the University of Paris XIII and Director of the CEPN (Centre d’Économie de l’Université Paris Nord). Her research interests are institutional and labour economics and structural reforms and policies within European Monetary Union.

Gregory Jackson is Professor of Business and Society at the University of Bath. His research focuses on cross-national comparisons of corporate governance, particularly in Germany, Japan, the UK and the USA.

Xavier Ragot is a CNRS Researcher in Economics. His main research interests include monetary economics, incomplete markets, theory and computation of equilibria and macroeconomics.

Antoine Rebérioux is Associate Professor of Economics at the University of Paris X–Nanterre and a Researcher at the EconomXiX research unit (University of Paris X–CNRS). His main research fields are corporate governance, theory of the firm and human resource management.

Lorenzo Sacconi is Professor of Economics at the University of Trento and Director of EconomEtica, an inter-university centre of research at the Milano Bicocca University. His research focuses on the foundations and application of game theory, the economic theory of institutions, contracts and the firm, as well as ethics and economics.

Robert M. Solow is Institute Professor Emeritus at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1987, he was awarded the Nobel Memorial Prize in Economics for his contributions to economic growth theory. He is a Visiting Scholar at the Russell Sage Foundation, New York, where he is a member of the advisory committee for the Foundation’s project on the incidence and quality of low-wage employment in Europe and the United States. Professor Solow is President of the Cournot Centre for Economic Studies.

Jean-Philippe Touffut is Co-Founder and Director of the Cournot Centre for Economic Studies.