

Contents

About the authors	ix
Foreword	xii
Pier Carlo Padoan
Foreword	xv
Gabrio Forti
Acknowledgements	xxiii
List of abbreviations	xxv
Introduction	1
PART I ECONOMICS, FINANCE, AND GOVERNANCE
Section 1: Economics
1. Opening remarks: corruption and economic analysis	13
2. Firms, markets, and corruption	19
3. Corruption and macroeconomic performance	52
Section 2: Finance
4. Financial markets: bonds, stocks, and politically-connected firms	95
5. The impact of corruption on shares' returns of euro-area listed industrial firms	115
6. Operational efficiency, corruption, and political stability in microfinance	129
Section 3: Governance
7. Governance, corruption, and effects on institutions	153

PART II BIRTH AND EVOLUTION OF A GLOBAL ANTI-CORRUPTION LEGAL STANDARD

Section 4: Cases of transnational corruption: description and legal issues

8. How corruption affects the economic and institutional textures of States: three case examples 183

Section 5: Horizontal assessment of international hard law instruments

9. The US FCPA as the archetype of supranational anti-bribery regulation 209
10. The emergence of an international framework: regional, international, and multilateral treaties and initiatives 217
11. Criminalization of the offense 311
12. Sanctions and corporate liability 350
13. Jurisdictional issues 377
14. Mutual legal assistance and extradition 394
15. Preventive and non-criminal-related measures 418
16. Follow-up procedures as specific cases of international supervision 443
17. Asset recovery 479
- Afterword* 524
- Bibliography* 529
- Index* 595