Foreword

*Professor Sir Elihu Lauterpacht CBE QC LLD

Those who may regard themselves as traditionalist or 'black letter' international lawyers will welcome the content and style of this addition to the contemporary literature of the subject. The energy of its editors and the participation of its contributors reflect the continuation of the place that Cambridge has come to hold in this field and its continuing contribution to the regeneration of the scholars committed to the discipline. The appearance of this periodical tells us that the torch lit by Oppenheim more than a century ago and carried forward by his distinguished successors is still burning brightly.

* Honorary Professor of International Law, University of Cambridge and Founding Director of the Lauterpacht Centre for International Law.
