In order to publish your article we need your permission to publish the material and warranties both of originality and concerning defamation and libel. Please ensure you have read the terms of publication set out below, sign the form and return it to us as quickly as possible.

Title of Article ................................................................. (“the Article”)

Name(s) of Author(s) ...............................................................

..............................................................................................

..............................................................................................

..............................................................................................

Name of Copyright Owner, if not Author(s) ....................................

In consideration of Edward Elgar Publishing Ltd (“the Publisher”) agreeing to publish the Article it is agreed as follows:

1. The Author(s) grant the Publisher the exclusive right (i) to reproduce and/or distribute the Article (including the abstract) throughout the world in printed, electronic or any other medium, (ii) to authorise others (including Reproduction Rights Organisations such as the Copyright Licensing Agency and the Copyright Clearance Center) to do the same and (iii) to publish the Article in the Competition Law Journal (“the Journal”) and to sell or distribute the Article within the Journal, on its own, or with other related material.

2. The Author(s) warrant that the Article (i) is their original work and (ii) has not previously been published in, and is not currently under consideration for publication, by another journal, provided that, for the avoidance of doubt, this shall not apply where a previous version of the Article has appeared in a publication of any firm, company or other organization with which the Author(s) are affiliated (for example, in a client briefing or note) or if the Article is based upon a speech or other oral presentation made by the Author(s) provided further that the existence of such earlier version, speech or presentation is disclosed to the Publisher and the Editors of the Journal.

3. The Author(s) warrant that, if the Article contains material which is someone else’s copyright, they have obtained the unrestricted permission of the owner of copyright in such material to reproduce in the Article (in all media including print and electronic form) them, and that the source of such material is acknowledged in the Article.
4. The Author(s) (i) warrant that the Article does not, to the best of their knowledge, contain anything which is libelous, defamatory, illegal, or infringes anyone’s copyright or other rights. and (ii) will indemnify and keep indemnified the Publisher and the Editors of the Journal against all claims and expenses (including legal costs and expenses) arising from any breach of any warranty in this Agreement.

5. The Publisher shall respect the Author(s)’s rights as the Author(s) of the Article and will (i) always clearly associate the Author(s)’s name(s) with the Article; (ii) not make any substantial changes to the Article without consulting the Author(s);

6. On publication, the Publisher will send each of the Author(s) a free electronic copy of the Article .

7. The Publisher will take all reasonable steps to maximise the visibility of the Journal, and of the Article within it.

8. The Author(s) (i) retain ownership of copyright in the Article, which the Publishers will acknowledge in the copyright line which appears on the Article and (ii) authorise the Publisher to act on their behalf to defend their copyright if anyone should infringe it, and to retain half of any damages awarded, after deducting its costs.

The Author(s) retain the right to use the Article (provided they give full acknowledgement of the published original): (i) in advising clients, (ii) for the internal know-how, education or training purposes of any firm, company or other organization with which they are affiliated, or (iii) by publishing on the website of any firm, company or other organization with which they are affiliated, an electronic copy of the draft Article no sooner than 6 (six) months after it has been published in the Journal, provided that in doing so the source of the Article is clearly stated in the format “This article was first published by Edward Elgar Limited in [year] Comp Law and is reproduced by agreement with the Publisher”.

Please note that you are not permitted to post the Edward Elgar typeset PDF version of the Article online.

9. The Publisher will keep the information provided to it by the Author(s) for record purposes and the Author(s) permit their name and professional affiliation (if any) to be reproduced in the Journal and on indexing and abstracting and bibliographic services.
Signature(s) of Author(s)

........................................................................... Date ...................... ORCID ID .................
........................................................................... Date ...................... ORCID ID .................
........................................................................... Date ...................... ORCID ID .................

Signature on behalf of the Copyright Owner, if different:

........................................................................... Date ......................

Print title, name, position: ........................................................................................................

Notes:

(i) every named author must sign this form, or a copy of it

(ii) if the Author(s)’ employer, government or someone else owns the copyright in the Article, please ask them to sign above.

(iii) ORCID is a scheme which allows authors to create a unique identity – solving the problem of different people sharing similar names, or confusion from variant spellings. If the Author(s) have an ORCID ID, please record this above and the Publisher will ensure it is attached to the Article. This is entirely optional. For more information please visit orcid.org

(iv) To ensure that the Author(s) receive a copy of the issue of the Journal containing the Article promptly upon publication, please let the Publisher know their preferred mailing address(es):

............................................................................................................................................

Please return this form by email to: marina.bowgen@e-elgar.co.uk or post to: Marina Bowgen, Senior Book and Journals Editor
Edward Elgar Publishing Ltd
Heatherley House, 10 Heatherley Road
Camberley, Surrey, UK GU15 3LW

☐ Please tick this box if you do not want to receive new title information, news or offers from Edward Elgar Publishing