Essentials in Climate Change collection

61 Titles published between 2001-2021

A must-have resource for environmental law, environmental economics, environmental studies and environmental politics programs from Edward Elgar Publishing

Elgar has been a leading publisher of climate change research in law and the social sciences for over 30 years. We have used citation, sales, and Elgaronline usage data to carefully curate a list of the top 61 titles in these important fields specially related to climate change, and that have stood the test of time. Featuring a wide range of topics and written and edited by internationally recognized scholars, this is an essential collection for libraries building a well-rounded and comprehensive offering for social science and legal students and researchers in climate change.

With this collection, your researchers will have access to some of the best writing on essential topics including:

- climate law
- climate governance
- climate economics
- climate change and society
- climate change negotiations.

Volumes include important original reference works, key edited volumes and authored monographs covering important research findings, mapping new and emerging fields of research, and enlightening critiques for graduate students.
