Interactive Entertainment Law Review

Editors: Gaetano Dimita, Queen Mary University of London, UK, Jon Festinger, Q.C., Simon Fraser University and Centre for Digital Media, Canada, Marc Mimler, Bournemouth University, UK

The aim of the Interactive Entertainment Law Review (IELR) is to serve as a peer-reviewed hub for legal analysis of interactive entertainment, video games, virtual/augmented/mixed realities, social media, and all related and emergent forms of digital interactive entertainment. IELR is published twice a year with articles focusing on the legal changes, challenges and controversies in this high profile and increasingly critical area of legal inquiry.

The scope of subjects include:

- Copyright, trademark, patent and fair use;
- EULAs and contracts;
- Privacy, personality and surveillance;
- Internet and communications;
- Freedoms and censorship;
- Consumer protections

High quality contributions from academic, industry and legal practitioners are sought and welcomed.

Cambridge International Law Journal

Honorary Editor-in-Chief: Professor Eyal Benvenisti, Director of the Lauterpacht Centre, Whewell Professor of International Law, University of Cambridge, UK

Editors-in-Chief: Eirini Kikarea and Maayan Menashe, University of Cambridge, UK

The Cambridge International Law Journal (CILJ) succeeds the Cambridge Journal of International and Comparative Law (CJICL), which was established in 2011 at the University of Cambridge. CILJ is a double-blind peer-reviewed journal with a broad focus on international law. CILJ publishes in all areas of international law, including regional and transnational legal regimes, such as European Union Law. CILJ provides a platform for both young and well-established academics to publish outstanding research on cutting edge, highly topical international law issues alongside, and in dialogue, with each other. CILJ is well-served by an Academic Review Board made up of distinguished international law experts from around the world. Additionally, the CILJ blog and the CILJ annual conference are integral parts of the journal.

Queen Mary Journal of Intellectual Property

Editor-in-Chief: Johanna Gibson, Herchel Smith Professor of Intellectual Property Law, Queen Mary University of London, UK

Intellectual property law attracts diverse international attention and warrants considered scholarship and analysis. Not only is this an area of detailed practice and study, but also a significant part of each citizen's daily life. From the question of access to products to concerns for the creative and innovative process, this area of law is of considerable interest to scholars and the general public alike. Modern intellectual property practice and scholarship is necessarily interdisciplinary, intersecting not only with other areas of law, but also with cultural and socio-economic approaches to knowledge. Contemporary research considers the operation of intellectual property in the context of human rights, social, political and economic spheres. Engaging the diversity of perspectives on these important issues is essential to comprehensive debate, and it is this richness of debate and interrogation to which Queen Mary Journal of Intellectual Property (QMJIP) seeks to participate, by publishing high quality contributions to the field.

QMJIP is the only IP journal included within the Clarivate Analytics Social Sciences Citation Index.

Journal of Human Rights and the Environment

Editor-in-Chief: Anna Grear, Cardiff University, UK, University of Waikato, New Zealand and Director of the Global Network for the Study of Human Rights and the Environment (GNHRE)

Managing Editor: Julia Dehm, La Trobe Law School, Australia

Editors: Louis J. Kotzé, North-West University, South Africa, Evadne Grant, Bristol Law School, University of the West of England and Stephen J. Humphreys, London School of Economics and Political Science, UK

The relationship between human rights and the environment is fascinating, uneasy and increasingly urgent. This international journal provides a strategic academic forum for an extended interdisciplinary and multi-layered conversation that explores emergent possibilities, existing tensions, and multiple implications of entanglements between human and non-human forms of liveliness.

Review of Keynesian Economics

Co-Editors: Thomas Palley, Independent Economist, Matias Vernengo, Bucknell University, US and Esteban Pérez Caldentey, Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (CEPAL)

The Review of Keynesian Economics (ROKE) is dedicated to the promotion of research in Keynesian economics. Not only does that include Keynesian ideas about macroeconomic theory and policy, it also extends to microeconomic and meso-economic analysis and relevant empirical and historical research.

In the founding editors' view, Keynesian theory should hold a similar place in economics to that held by the theory of evolution in biology. Many individual economists still work within the Keynesian paradigm, but intellectual success demands institutional support that can leverage those individual efforts. ROKE offers such support by providing a forum for developing and sharing Keynesian ideas. Not only does that include ideas about macroeconomic theory and policy, it also extends to microeconomic and meso-economic analysis and relevant empirical and historical research. We see a bright future for the Keynesian approach to macroeconomics and invite the economics profession to join us by subscribing to the journal and submitting manuscripts.

ROKE is indexed within the Clarivate Analytics Social Sciences Citation Index.

European Journal of Economics and Economic Policies: Intervention

Managing Editors: Stefan Ederer, Austrian Institute for Economic Research – WIFO, Austria, Eckhard Hein, Berlin School of Economics and Law, Germany, Marc Lavoie, University of Paris 13, France and University of Ottawa, Canada, Torsten Niechoj (Lead Editor), Rhine-Waal University of Applied Sciences, Germany, and Gennaro Zezza, University of Cassino, Italy and Levy Economics Institute at Bard College, US

The European Journal of Economics and Economic Policies: Intervention (EJEEP) is a peer-reviewed journal which serves as a forum for studies in macroeconomic theory, economic institutions and economic policies. The recent financial and economic crises have again demonstrated the inadequacy of orthodox economics based on neoclassical foundations, both in explaining the causes of the crises and in suggesting the appropriate economic policy responses. Therefore, the managing editors invite contributions acknowledging the pluralism of research approaches in economics. In particular they aim at productive debates involving one or more variants of heterodox approaches. The managing editors contend that a wide variety of institutional and social factors shape economic life and economic processes. Only a careful study and integration of such factors into economics will lead to theoretical progress and to adequate economic policy recommendations. The submission of both theoretical and empirical work is encouraged.

The roots of the EJEEP go back to 2004, when the first issue of Intervention: Journal of Economics was published. In 2008 the journal was re-launched as Intervention: European Journal of Economics and Economic Policies. With the change of the publisher in 2013 it has since become the European Journal of Economics and Economic Policies: Intervention.
